

Three images showing industrial equipment:

- Top image: A large, cylindrical metal tank or container, possibly for storage or processing, with a yellow safety line on the floor.
- Middle image: A blue metal frame or structure, likely for storage or transport, with a yellow safety line on the floor.
- Bottom image: A large, rectangular metal structure, possibly a container or a piece of machinery, with a yellow safety line on the floor.
